

AP PSYCH 4th QUARTER PROJECT

CONGRATULATIONS! You made to the end of the course and now you have 1 more project to complete as you move on to something else in your life, in or out of this school. I've been very pleased to spend an hour a day with you since early September as you have helped make all 4 classes fun for me (I do not always say this, trust me!). OK, enough with the gushy stuff--the last project ---something I like to call "The Unhelpful Professor" or "OH CRAP! They didn't teach me this in high school!"

YOUR TASK:

Pretend you are a freshman in college. You will watch 3 psychology-related movies in class for the next few weeks. Each movie is about the same length, loaded with stars as well as psych themes, and are pretty darn good. You are going to write a SHORT paper on 2 of the 3 movies describing one or two psychological themes of the movie. But Unhelpful Professor wants 2 in-text citations and your sources (3) using APA formatting (they didn't teach me that!). Unhelpful Professor won't help you, so problem-solve freshie!

THE RUBRIC: Each Paper = 50 points x 2 = 100 points

		Total points
Psych theme accurately identified and defined	8 points max	8
In-text Citation	5 points each	10
Sources	5 points each	15
Correct APA Format	15 points max	15
Turned in on time as directed	7 points max	7
		55 possible points per paper x 2 = 110 possible

* No Wikipedia!!!

* Only 1 .com---use .org/.edu or textbook----it's academia people!

* Cite the movie--duh!

BUT WAIT--THERE'S MORE!!! IF YOUR FIRST PAPER IS PERFECT--I'LL DOUBLE ITS POINTS AND YOU'RE DONE!!! YOU JUST HAVE TO WRITE A QUICK SUMMARY OF ANOTHER MOVIE AND WE'RE GOOD.
